Premier of Klaudia Kovacs' & George Adams' New Film

Multi-award-winning filmmakers, George Adams and Klaudia Kovacs, premiere their latest feature-length documentary, Touche: A Blind Fencer's Story, at the Big Bear Lake International Film Festival.

It took 18 months to document a young single mother, Catherine Bolton's struggle with her loss of eyesight and rise to championship. Bolton perseveres as the Olympic sport of fencing helps her gain the much needed self-assurance and practical skills to cope with her new circumstances. The sport requires thick protective jackets, masks, gloves, and swords, yet Bolton and four low/no vision fencers in the film can pick up an epee, challenge a sighted fencer, and win!

Touche: A Blind Fencer's Story will have its West Coast premiere at 10:30AM, September 20th at the Village North Cinemas, in Big Bear Lake, California. For additional information: www.touchemovie.com.
